Activity for the 1<sup>er</sup> half-year

Favourable sales momentum in specialities, but a still complex competitive environment in commodities

A fall in business levels and sugar prices weighing on operating profitability

Outlook

Continued improvement of industrial processes and control of fixed costs, plan to transform facilities towards the production of specialities

Preparing the contract production offer

Search for new levers to restore profitability and secure the Group's financing

Clermont-Ferrand, 28 September 2023 - (FR0004177046 METEX), METabolic Explorer (METEX), a leader in industrial fermentation for the production of natural ingredients for the animal feed, cosmetics and biopolymers markets, today published its consolidated half-year results to 30 June 2023. The Group's activity in the first half of the year continued to be affected by the difficult economic climate, which weighed on sales. At the end of June 2023, Group sales totalled €69.1m, compared with €129.3m at the end of June 2022. This change is attributable to an erosion in sales of commodities, despite a more favourable sales momentum in specialities.

In specialities, METEX is benefiting from the quality of its extensive catalogue. Sales have been rising sequentially in both volume and value since the fourth quarter of 2022. At the end of June 2023, sales of specialities totalled €45.9m, with Valine and Tryptophan in animal nutrition showing steady growth.

In the PDO market, cosmetics sales are at a satisfactory level. However, the Group anticipates increased competition in this segment from the second half of the year. In Technical PDO, despite the effects of the crisis in Europe and the slowdown in construction markets, sales held up well. At 30 June, Specialities accounted for 67% of Group sales, compared with 39% at end-June 2022, helping to improve the product mix.

The decline in commodity sales continued over the half year as a whole, with sales of €22.6m compared with €78.9m in the first half of 2022. As a result of the impact of the international economic situation, and in particular the much weaker than expected recovery in Chinese growth in the first half of the year, competition from Asia intensified in the European market, resulting in significant pressure on selling prices.

Profitability impacted by the level of activity, the European sugar price and fixed costs

As already mentioned, despite the dynamic recovery in Specialities sales during the first half of the year, the Group's level of activity weighed on the half-year accounts. In addition, energy prices (fixed in advance to 2023) remain high, and there is constant inflation in the price of European sugar, which has doubled in the last twelve months and is now well above the price of world sugar.

These factors have automatically weighed on the Group's profitability. At 30 June 2023, METEX's EBITDA was €9.7m, compared with €7.4m at the end of the first half of 2022.

After a depreciation charge of €4.4m at end-June 2023, equivalent to that at 30 June 2022, operating income before non-recurring items was €15.2m, compared with €12.7m at end-June 2022.

Including net financial expense, which was stable at €2.1m (compared with €2.2m at end-June 2022), the Group's net profit was €16.9m, compared with €18.4m in the first half of 2022.

Balance sheet analysis

At 30 June 2023:

- The Group's shareholders' equity was €95.1m, compared with €103.7m at 31 December 2022.
- Inventories, which include raw materials and finished goods, totalled €59.7m. As a reminder, inventories stood at €86.3m at 30 June 2022, with the introduction of an integrated supply chain having enabled finished goods inventory levels to be optimised.
- Consolidated gross cash amounted to €47.9m, compared with €13.5m at 31 December 2022. Group debt amounted to €116.3m (of which €18.1m at less than one year), compared with €52.1m at 31 December 2022. This figure includes €62.3m relating to financing transactions carried out during the 1<sup>er</sup> quarter of 2023<sup>2</sup>. Cash net of debt was -€68.4m, compared with €38.6m at 31 December 2022. Given the level of activity, competitive pressure and input costs, the Group's cash position remains under pressure despite the financing transactions mentioned above. METEX expects this pressure to continue in the coming quarters and is working with its partners to find new levers to restore profitability and secure financing.

Outlook: continuation of the transformation plan towards specialities

On the commercial front, commodity sales are likely to continue to be heavily impacted by the international economic situation over the coming months, with much weaker-than-expected growth in China over the first half of the year leading to increased sales of amino acids from Asian competitors to the European market, and consequent downward pressure on selling prices.

As mentioned, production costs are also likely to remain under pressure, particularly in relation to sugar prices in 2023.

Against this backdrop, the Group has focused on application segments that place greater value on the quality of its speciality products (such as TILAMAR® PDO with NØØVISTA™), the associated services and the local, decarbonised origin of production.

At the same time, action plans have been implemented to optimise price levels and prioritise the allocation of product volumes that contribute most to the Group's operating margin.

On the industrial front, the Group is pursuing its efforts with a plan whose initial effects are already being felt and will continue to materialise in the medium term:

- Diversifying the types of sugar that can be used without affecting production process yields. Encouraging advances in this area have enabled the METEX teams to extend the range of this type of input.
- Making the tool more agile and flexible.
- Improving the energy efficiency of processes (10% efficiency gains achieved by 2023 on the energy consumption stub).
- Continuous optimisation of fixed costs (almost 20% reduction in fixed costs in the space of 2 years).

The Group also intends to adapt its production facilities for existing and future specialities such as glycolic acid. The launch of METEX glycolic acid will be a first for the cosmetics industry, which is looking for biobased solutions.

In addition, to optimise the use of its production facilities, the Group has entered into commercial discussions with a number of manufacturers for the contract manufacture of speciality ingredients. This contract manufacturing offer meets the needs of industrial players. At a time when capital available to finance industrial investment is increasingly scarce, this METEX toll manufacturing offer is an opportunity for innovation players looking for first-rate production capacity and recognised expertise in the development, scale-up and industrial implementation of fermentation processes. The Group has already received some very encouraging expressions of interest.

About METabolic EXplorer – www.metabolic-explorer.com

Contributing to the ecological transition through innovations for the production by fermentation of functional ingredients used in the manufacture of consumer goods.

Using renewable raw materials, the Group develops and industrialises innovative and competitive industrial fermentation processes as an alternative to petrochemical processes to meet consumers' new societal expectations and the objectives of the energy transition.

Its two industrial units, METEX NØØVISTAGO and METEX NØØVISTA, allow the METEX Group to achieve its ambition of becoming one of the world leaders in functional ingredients produced by fermentation for the formulation of cosmetic products, animal feed or the synthesis of biopolymers market 1,3 propanediol (PDO) and butyric acid (BA).

Based at the Clermont Limagne technology park, near Clermont-Ferrand, METabolic EXplorer is listed on Euronext in Paris (Compartment B, METEX) and is included in the CAC Small Index.
